

EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT SURVEYS

The extent to which employees are engaged in the work they do and the organization they work for, largely determines an organisation's ability to remain competitive and generate profit. South African organisations report engagement levels of 23% or less. It is against this back-drop that CEO's and Executives highlight the lack of employee engagement as one of the biggest risks facing institutions in 2015 and beyond.

What EOH offer:

- ✓ Employee engagement strategy design
- ✓ Standardised employee engagement surveys
- ✓ Customised employee engagement surveys
- ✓ Intervention design to improve employee engagement
- ✓ Analysis of your engagement survey results, and intervention design and implementation
- ✓ Training on the theory and best practice of employee engagement survey and intervention design, to equip your own team

Employee engagement is not automatic, nor is it driven from employees themselves. It is a fundamental driver of business that needs proactive and deliberate action from business in order to be cultivated into a force that will drive business performance and competitive success.

Our Track Record

Surveyed over 10 000 employees in more than 30 companies, with standardised or customised engagement surveys.
